119 Ambassador Loop, Downtown Cary, NC
Friday June 7, 2024 7-9 PM

Roadhouse Storytellers perform Friday June 7, 2024 at the garden next to the Page-Walker Arts & History Center in Cary as part of the Performances at the Page Series. Featured performers are Cynthia Brown, Chris Wise, Kathy Gordon, and Sam Pearsall. There will be a Mexican food truck in the parking lot, and we will retreat to the Page Walker Center if it rains. Bring your own lawn chairs. This is a FREE storytelling event. You won't need a ticket. Bring the family!

Cynthia Brown

Cynthia Brown lives in Summerville, NC. She has been an acclaimed performer and educator for over three decades in NC, the South and Europe. Cynthia uses her many talents to bring texture to her down-home Southern style. Her costumes and props add rich dimensions to each special tale. <http://www.folkteller.com/>

Chris Wise

Chris Wise considers himself a "story-finder" as much as a storyteller. He finds stories—and songs — hidden within his own and others' lives. And, from time to time, he just makes stuff up. He settled in Raleigh 30 years ago after a career as a soldier. jchriswise@nc.rr.com

Kathy Gordon

Born in the mountains of Western North Carolina, Kathy Gordon grew up on stories of her parents' childhoods. Her father was a great storyteller. As an adult Kathy taught in Asheville City Schools where she taught through stories. After retirement in 2006, she continued crafting and telling stories about life in the mountains of Western North Carolina. Sam Pearsall

Sam is a retired ecologist and tonight's fourth storyteller and emcee, Sam believes we are all made of stories! Stories are what we remember and dream and how we think of each other. Every story is a whole world. Sam believes that with any good story, the further in you go, the bigger it gets. <https://samstories.org>
